

Questions to Ask When Hiring a Web Development Company

*This is an extra resource to go along with the original article:
A Guide to Hiring Your First Web Development Firm*

As we mentioned in the blog post, asking questions is critical if you want to find a web design agency that can provide the redesign you need and communicate with you effectively. Here are five sample questions to ask of a web development firm that you are thinking about hiring. You can use them as-is or tweak them depending on your specific needs.

- 1. What is your process for understanding what your clients are asking for?
- 2. How would you handle a situation where you were unable to deliver something you had promised by a certain timeframe?
- 3. What kind of security measures will you put in place on my website?
- 4. What will you need from me and my team throughout the process?
- 5. What's your favorite website and why?

Find this useful?

Then go ahead and share the link to the original article so that others can benefit too!

A Guide to Hiring Your First Web Development Firm <http://bit.ly/1kZyNfD> by @ClientTwitter

Tweet it now